

OPEN TECH HOUSE

Girls in Tech™

Overview

---

As we kick-off 2018, women in tech are still facing significant barriers in the workplace—from a shortage of women role models, to gender-based pay gap, to persistent gender bias that nearly 90% of them say they have experienced. Through Girls in Tech’s “Open Tech House” companies will have the opportunity to address these challenges head-on and underscore their commitment to leveling the playing field and diversifying their workforce. This one-day event is focused on the active recruitment and retention of top female tech talent, who will help build a stronger tech workforce for the future—a workforce in which women are equally represented, fairly compensated, and confident that their employers are committed to their success.

The event provides an exciting opportunity for companies’ staff and executives to engage with potential recruits, as well as share best practices, available jobs and an overview of the company culture.

The day will be filled with live music, food, drinks, information sharing, and open interviewing, if interested.
